READY, AIM....

At least in four Old Testament passages, the expression, "The Beauty of Holiness" is employed. Holiness is indeed beautiful. As good as repentance, confession and forgiveness are, holiness is better. We live in a time when the value and beauty of holiness is not recognized, and is not seen for what it is.

In fact, rather than focusing upon the "Beauty of Holiness," we live in a time when people have flip-flopped this biblical expression and are being deceived by what they think is the "Holiness of Beauty." Forget about the "beauty of holiness" in the cracking, failing voice of an aged Christian widow singing, "Heaven Will Surely Be Worth It All," and make room for the perceived "holiness of beauty" in the melodic, trained voices of professional singers.

Just look around. Take note of how the church seems more preoccupied with "beauty," rather than "holiness." Want an example? Congregational singing is giving way in some churches to special group singing and choruses. Why do you suppose that mechanical instrumental music is heard in churches today? It is certainly not because of any biblical precedent, or precept. Rather it is because someone along the way decided that anything that sounded that "beautiful" must be "holy".

In some places preaching has given way to drama, artistic paintings, and interpretive dancing. Congregational singing has given way to praise teams, choruses, and choirs. Money that used to be spent on mission work or helping the downtrodden is now spent on elaborate, ornate, and excessive worship facilities. One of my first questions when I see this shift in congregations is "why"? Why are such changes being promoted? I think one of the major reasons is that people have flip-flopped a biblical truth. Instead of focusing on the "beauty of holiness," they have been deceived into accepting the "holiness of beauty."

Friends, don't misunderstand. There is nothing wrong in beauty, it's just not our aim. Our aim is holiness. The value is not in beauty, but holiness. Remember we are to worship God in the "beauty of holiness," not in the "holiness of beauty."

A VERY PRESENT HELP

He’s helping me now this moment,
Though I may not see it or hear,
Perhaps by a friend far distant,
Perhaps by a stranger near,
Perhaps by a spoken message,
Perhaps by the printed Word;
In ways that I know and know not
I have the help of the Lord.

He’s keeping me now – this moment,
However I need it most
Perhaps by a single angel,
Perhaps by a mighty host,
Perhaps by the chain that frets me,
Or the walls that shut me in;
In ways that I know and know not,
He keeps me from harm and sin.

He’s guiding me now – this moment,
In pathways easy or hard,
Perhaps by a door wide open,
Perhaps by a door fast barred,
Perhaps by a joy withholden,
Perhaps by a gladness given;
In ways that I know and know not,
He’s leading me up to heaven.

He’s using me now – this moment
And whether I go or stand,
Perhaps by a plan accomplished,
Perhaps when He stays my hand,
Perhaps by a word in season,
Perhaps by a silent prayer;
In ways that I know and know not,
His labor of love I share.
