GREAT MOTHERS

May 5, 2010

1. Great moms express appreciation (Colossians 3:15, Philippians 4:6).
2. Great moms realize that little things do make a difference, even if they are taken for granted. It is encouraging for a child to see constant reminders in little things that say "I love you".
3. Great moms have an innate willingness to forgive (Ephesians 4:32, Colossians 3:12, 13). There is the realization that no child is perfect, but all have weaknesses and need forgiveness.
4. Great moms give emotional support. They weep when a child weeps and rejoice over even the most trivial of victories. The child knows that someone cares, believes in him, is there for him, and wants what is best for him.
5. Great moms have a sense of humor. They do not laugh at their child, but with their child. They are not afraid to laugh at themselves.
6. Great moms handle disagreements and conflicts in love. They are fair even when their child does not know what fair is.
7. Great moms change, tolerate change, and accept the unchangeable.
8. Great moms keep secrets. Moms like to talk about their children, but they know that some things are only for them to know. They never betray a trust.
9. Great moms pray for their children. They pray not so much for worldly success, but that their children's souls may be saved in the day of judgment.
10. Great moms become friends. It is true that great moms are moms for life; but really, they are much more than moms.
11. Great moms share their faith and values (Proverbs 22:6, Deuteronomy 6:7). The bonds of mutual faith and values will last through the years.
12. Great moms die with dignity with their children calling them blessed. There is nothing so precious as a mother who has faithfully fulfilled her duty and died in the Lord.

MOTHER

When God had finished all His works, He then created man.	She cleans the house, cooks all the meals, Darns socks and washes clothes.
He took him from the Earth He’d made, And formed him with His hands.	Takes time to visit with the sick, As through her, goodness flows.

‘Twas then He looked at man and said, “He’ll not be left alone.”	Seems all her day is filled with work, A toilsome road to trod,
So then He put him fast asleep, And took from him some bone.	But when the work is done each day, She kneels and praises God.

The bone that God did take from him Was taken from his side.	No truer statement ever made Was made in decades past.
And from this made for man himself, His life long joy and pride.	It will forever then be true, Down to the very last.

It’s here that Mother came to light, And down through all creation,	The statement now, of which I speak, As Mother’s love unfurls:
She’s still the greatest thing on earth, In every land and nation.	“The hand that rocks the cradle Is the hand that rules the world.”

She never asks much for herself, She puts her family first.	Now God in all His might and wisdom, While portraying Mother’s beauties;
When Scarcity shows its ugly head, She always takes the worst.	Has plainly said her values are: “Beyond the price of rubies.”

~Vance Clemons

Vance wrote this poem on Mother’s Day for his wife, Lois, some 30-35 years ago. With Mother’s Day being this Sunday, we felt it would be appropriate to publish this in the bulletin as a tribute to Vance and Lois as well as to all mother’s and grandmother’s.
