CHILDREN

We need to ask for help of parents in controlling the young children running through the building and jumping off the stairs, particularly after services. We are certainly thankful to be blessed by all of our youngsters. Yet, we are also mindful of and concerned for the well-being of some of our senior saints that are more frail. We need to work together and be more considerate of one another. We need parents to be alert and help control these young ones who are so full of energy to prevent injury to others. We appreciate everyone's cooperation in this matter.
